DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Niessner et al, U. S. Patent 5,475,053 in view of Rosenau et al, U. S. Patent 5,821,302 and Schleith et al, U. S. Patent 5,340,877.

All three references are drawn to molding compositions for similar applications and contain thermoplastic polymers and dulling agents. Reference to Niessner et al teaches the use of a broad spectrum of thermoplastics from which any would be an obvious matter of choice to one of ordinary skill in the art. Reference to Rosenau et al specifically teaches component b of the claims for use in these compositions with the particle size disclosed in column 6. Reference to Schleith et al teaches the choice of polyoxymethylene as the thermoplastic. From the teachings of Niessner et al and Rosenau et al it would be prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the small particulate polymers into the molding composition of Niessner et al and to choose the thermoplastic polymers from those known in the art as seen from all three references absent evidence of unexpected results commensurate in scope to the claims.
